My name is [REDACTED] and I'm an independent, low-volume Vancouver escort. I took my name from the film [REDACTED], in v[REDACTED]. Throughout the film, it was extremely poignant to me that only [REDACTED] was free of the social mores around sexuality. She didn't understand them, and although the town sometimes hated her for it, the rules didn't apply to her.

I'm a university-educated Canadian of mixed descent. I [REDACTED] welcomed the change in culture moving to the city afforded. I'm allegedly a weak Myers-Briggs introvert - practically, this means concerts, theatre, and restaurants over clubs and parties. I may always favour wine and conversation, but a wonderful aspect of this profession is discovering and savouring the distinctive notes in every conversation. (Cue cheesy music.)

[REDACTED] always been interested in minority [REDACTED]

One day, I timidly stepped into the foyer of an agency, and, bewildered, was hired on the spot. I took two appointments that day and was late for class. In a very healthy way, (I cannot stress this enough!) I was hooked. I am thoroughly enjoying my work, and plan to continue in it for at least the next few years.

Leisurely pursuits of mine include spending time with friends, volunteering, and exploring the arts and dining scenes of Vancouver when I can. If I'm very fortunate, I travel! I otherwise
